

Pat Turnbull is a U.S. Navy Veteran, professional engineer, and trained public servant who has worked in the water, wastewater, and solid waste fields for the last 19 years. He currently leads Montgomery County's Water, Sewer, and Solid Waste Districts in the United States where he and his team provide water and sewer service to about 250,000 people in the Great Buckeye State (Ohio). He and his team are passionate about being leaders and trusted stewards of the environment where they focus on service, innovation, collaboration, and financial responsibility.